

Please join Annika Connor and the Roundtable of the National Arts Club on May 13th at 6:30pm for an exciting night of Art and Fashion. Gathering in Nolita at the boutique-clothing store INVEN.TORY, guests will have the opportunity to browse the store and view the Point Suite Pop Up Show. Starting at 6:30 pm we will host a light reception followed at 7pm by an evening of education artist talks by the curator and artists in the INVEN.TORY EXHIBITION: a Point Suite Pop Up Show.

The INVEN.TORY EXHIBITION is a pop-up show in support of the Point Suite Art Book. This exhibition is an innovative collaboration between Fine Art and Fashion that embraces and explores the idea of art outside the traditional gallery structure.

On May 13th, some of the artists in the exhibition: Megan Burns, Annika Connor, Tom Costa, and Melanie Jelacic will discuss their art. Curator Justine Durrett will discuss the phenomenon in today's art world of the stray space shows, and Natalie Fasano writer for the Point Suite Art Book will discuss the Point Suite project and the DIY mentality of young artists in today's current crisis climate.

This event will also act as an unofficial closing party for the exhibition, which ends the following day on May 14th. We hope to see you all then.

INVEN.TORY is located at 237 Lafayette Street, between Prince and Spring Streets.
Store Hours: Monday through Sunday, Noon to 8 p.m.

This exhibition is co-hosted by INVEN.TORY and Active Ideas Productions for more info on either them or the book project itself please visit:

<http://www.aiproductions.org/>

<http://www.inventorynyc.com/>

<http://www.pointsuiteartbook.com/>